RICH WEST SIDER SUED FOR ALIMONY

John Wilson Hotaling Now Wants to Reopen the Divorce Suit.

The exigencies of a proceeding to-day before Justice Platzek for the punishment of John Wilson Hotaling for alleged contempt of court in failing to pay alimony revealed a pathetic story in a matrimonial case which had been conducted with all the secrecy pos-

Michael J. Joyce, in behalf of Clara A. Hotaling told the story, and how it come about that John W. Hotaling. wealthy resident of West End avenue and Ninety-sixth street, had fallen in arrears $1,500 in his dues in the Alimony

"John W. Hotaling"'s wife died," asid the lawyer. "They were living with Mrs. Hotaling's family. They the had a sweet baby girl, idolized by the all times family, and particularly by her Aunt Clara, sister of the mother.

"Aunt Clara was devoted to little Adelaide Louise, and this appealed to the father of the child. At last love was awakened in the heart, and he asked Miss Clara to become his wife. She assented on condition that she should be mother in fact, and that the child should be thught to call her 'mamma' and in ignorance that her own mother was dead.

"An interacutory decree of absolute "An intersecutory decree of absolute divorce on statutory grounds was granted by Justice Dowling to Clara A. Hotaling last August. It was made final by Justice Newburger, in a decree giving the custody of the little girl and of John Wilson Hotaling, ir., to her, and directing Mr. Hotaling to pay 30 weekly allmony to Clara A. Hotaling so long as she remains unmarried, and $10 weekly for the support of each of their two children, making a total of $50 a week. An order for $50 counsel fees was also made. From this decree an appeal was taken but never pressed, and on Dec. It it was confirmed, alimony to run from the date of the decree.

"Not a penny of this has been paid," of the decree.

"Not a penny of this has been paid, and it new amounts to $1,250 alimony and $250 counsel fees. Hotaling is liv-and the new amounts to all the correspondent named in his wife's suit in a fine apartment at the northwest corner of West End avenue and Ninety-sixth street, where she holds herself out to the public as his wife, while his true wife, forced to depend upon the charity of her brother, lives with the children in a poor cottage in the Bronx."

Nathaniel Cohen, in opposition and in defense of John W. Hotaling, said that his default in the appeal from the decree was about to be opened; that Mr. Hotaling objected to the clause in the decree which gave his child by his former wife to her Aunt Clara, and to the child's support.

Decision was reserved.

Richard Says He Earned It by Building a World-Beating Auto.

The trial of the suit of Francis Richard, inventor, against Alfred Gwy.me Vanderbilt for $5,000 for services in constructing an auto which was to beat the world's record and go two miles a minute in the Ormond races of 1906, was put on trial before Justice Gerard and a jury in the Supreme Court to-

Richard testified how he assembled the parts in Mr. Vanderbilt's garage in Thirty-ninth street, and superin-tended the construction of the expected world beater. He destared that he had a contract with Mr. Vanderbilt through his private secretary. Edward Crocker, under which he was to be recompensed for his services, which included the purchase of all the parts. Incidentally it developed that the unassembled parts for this racing machine cost Mr. Vanderbilt $14,000.

William J. Morgan, an automobile magazine editor, testified that he saw the machine at Ormond; that it entered no race, but he saw it spin by the grand stand twice at a forty-mile clip.

Charles E. Crocker, private secretary to Mr. Vanderbilt, admitted a verbal contract with Richard, but with the proviso that the machine should turn but a world beater, and he declared that the machine wouldn't go.

Thomas J. Fay, President of the American Society of Automobile Engineers, testifying as an expert, gave it as his opinion that the Vanderbilt car construction was in violation of mewas in violation of me
